of Nursing for being a part of the programme. This was subsequently followed by felicitation of the resource persons.

The resource person, Manashi Chaliha Deka, began the speech by greeting the dignitaries, participants, and thanking them for their gracious presence in the event. Amongst all the professions, nursing was highlighted as one of the noblest profession that delivers social service and internal satisfaction. With India growing in population and health sector being one of the sectors of pertinence, nursing in India is set to grow. The resource person motivated the participants by pointing out the availability of career opportunities in nursing and availability of nursing institutes across Assam and India at large. At this juncture, the chairperson stated that Ascent school of Nursing offers opportunities to enthusiastic aspirants in the field of nursing. After pointing about the courses available in their institute, she pointed out the various specializations that can be done in this field viz. Staff Nurse, Nursing Supervisor or Ward Sister, Assistant Nursing Superintendent or Department Supervisor, Deputy Nursing Superintendents, Director of Nursing. She pointed out that the role of a nurse is dynamic. Nursing is not limited to providing service to patients; rather management of ward and administrative tasks are few obscure duties which nurses perform. Apart from the duties performed by nurses inside the hospitals, nurses play an important role externally as well. Meghali Bhuyan, Marketing Manager, delineated on the courses available in their institute and the fee structure. She motivated the participants to opt for nursing as a career. The Vice-Principal of Rangapara college Dr. Ranendra Mohan Deka gave the vote of thanks at the end of the programme.
